

Summer School

Algorithmic State, Market and Society (FLOS)

13-17 July 2020 – Villa Ruspoli, Piazza Indipendenza 9, Florence

The first edition of the Summer School on “Algorithmic State, Market and Society” (FLOS) will be held in Florence on 13-17 July 2020.

The one-week programme focuses on cutting-edge issues in the field of law and technology focusing especially on automated technologies. This initiative aims to create a multi-stakeholder environment where scholars, practitioners, students and experts in the field of law, technology and economic can share their ideas.

FLOS is jointly hosted by the University of Florence (Italy), the European University Institute (Florence, Italy), and Bocconi University (Milan, Italy). This summer school is coordinated by professors Oreste Pollicino, Giovanni Sartor and Andrea Simoncini and scientifically organised by Erik Longo and Giovanni De Gregorio.
